

The Nervous System and Lupus

Lupus Fact Sheet

This article explains the effect lupus may take on the nervous system. Symptoms of lupus attacking the nervous system include vasculitis, mood disorders, nerve disorders and head aches. The article provides tips for helping remember items, as many people with nervous system lupus forget things easily. Finally the article warns that your medication may be the cause of nervous system lupus symptoms, so it is always important to discuss side effect and symptoms with your doctor and pharmacist.